Political Commentator Denise Grace Gitsham Joins U.S. Christian Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors

A trusted national media voice with deep relationships across Washington and the faith community joins one of the nation's largest Christian business networks

ORLANDO, Fla. (Aug. 13, 2026) — The U.S. Christian Chamber of Commerce™, one of the nation's largest Christian business networks connecting more than 3,000 members across 35 affiliated chambers, has elected on-air political commentator and attorney Denise Grace Gitsham to its national board of directors.

“Denise’s national platform and the relationships she has built across Washington are exactly what our board needs as we head into our next season of growth,” said Krystal Parker, president of the U.S. Christian Chamber of Commerce. “She has spent her career standing in rooms where faith and public life intersect, and she brings that same courage and grace to our mission of advancing the Kingdom through commerce.”

Gitsham is a familiar voice to national audiences as an on-air political commentator, and her career has carried her through rooms that shape the country, from the White House and the U.S. Department of Justice to the U.S. Senate and Capitol Hill. A graduate of Bowdoin College and the Georgetown University Law Center, she practiced law at K&L Gates and, in 2016, ran for Congress in California’s 52nd Congressional District. That same year, she founded her own public affairs firm, Vitamin D Public Relations. She is also the author of Politics for People Who Hate Politics: How to Engage without Losing Your Friends or Selling Your Soul, speaks Mandarin Chinese, serves on the board of Rock Church in San Diego, California, and is a regular contributor to Propel Women and Lifeway Women.

“As a businesswoman who has spent my career at the intersection of law, media and public policy, I’m thrilled to use the skills God has given me to serve what He’s doing in the marketplace,” said Gitsham. “Christians in business are in full-time ministry, and our work is one of the most powerful ways we can live out our faith and shape the culture around us. I’m honored to help the U.S. Christian Chamber of Commerce shine a light on that work and build a stronger, more prosperous America.”

As a board member, Gitsham will contribute her national media platform, Washington relationships and legal insight to support the USCCC’s continued growth and help shape the chamber’s message as it expands across the country.
